This morning the Daily Mail an-nounces in big, black type headlines, "Death of the Sunday Daily Mail; a frank concession to the religious feeling of the public."

It will be remembered that when the Sunday Daily Mail started it announced that its existence was due to the Daily Telegraph's starting a Sunday edition, and that as long as the latter published a Sunday edition, the former would do | Open. | Righ. | Low. | Close. 8.25 8.25 8.15 8.15 8.42% 8.42% 8.42% 8.12% Lard-Per 190 pounds: 8.02% 5.06 5.00% 5.00 5.15 5.00 5.15 5.17% Ribs-Per 100 pounds school to hear a musical recital given by Miss Davison's blind pupils. The affair was probably the best musical by Miss Davison's bilind pupils. The affair was probably the best musical entertainment given thus far at the school some of the pupils showing undusted musical laient, together with technical skill creditable to any performers of their ages. The programmenculated a duet by Thomas Biddulpt and Henrietta Maser, violin airs by James Higginson, and a march executed on the piano by John Braiey. Mrs. Ross gave a select reading, followed by two scussical numbers by a clever musician, Janey McCletland, Fitzgerald Nebeker rendered Mendelssohn's "Songs Without Words" on the piano, and received a merited encore-Mr. J. CLAY COMPANY RUSHED. Demand For Product Far Exceeds the Supply.

The demand for clay products is very great just now, and it seems out of the question for the factories to keep up question for the factories to keep up with their orders. The Enterprise people report everything as sold, even to the stock yet in their kilms, and also damaged goods which the manufacturers had not expected to put on the market at all.

A great deal of drain and sewer pipe is brought in from the east, and as the freight added to the price of the goods raises the cost of them to the Utah consumers to more than double what the local product costs, the struggle of consumers to get the homemade article may be understood. The manufacture of tiling, drain and sewer pipe, as well as other coarser clay products, has passed beyond the experimental stage, as the goods have been tried and found to stand the test of wear.

county clerk and his deputies are busy figuring up taxes on property The announcement came as a great surprise. In its explanation of its change of policy, the Daily Mail says:

"The Sunday Daily Mail is dead. The final issue of that journal was made on Sunday last, and we bury it today, without regret.

"Resolutions of protest and appeals from religious and other bodies throughout the country, asking that we should discontinue the seven-day paper, have assumed gigantic proportions. These have not only not been ignored by the Daily Mail office, but have been carefully considered by the proprietors.

"With a desire, therefore, to meet the view of those who object to Sunday journalism, the proprietors have decided to discontinue publication of the Sunday Daily Mail.

"We may mention that our decision in this matter was considerably influenced by an anneal from our own en-
